Maguindanao poll official denies losing CoCs

By Mike Oliver

COTABATO CITY—HE MAY BE ARMED TO THE teeth but Garing Bedol, the man at the center of a vote fraud scandal in Maguindanao, would rather face his accusers in court.

In court, he says, he would show the provincial election supervisor of Maguindanao, Comptroller Bedol, that he is not guilty of the charges against him.

"These are not saying that there was cheating in Maguindanao. It's a vote against me to remove the next day. They should like a case and I will answer their accusations," Bedol said.

Bedol says he was not a direct participant in the alleged vote fraud. He says he was only a witness to the alleged vote fraud. He says he was only a witness to the alleged vote fraud.

"They're OK, it's the Comelec that's the problem. They're the ones who are the problem. They're the ones who are the problem. They're the ones who are the problem."

Palace: Up to House to probe CA

By John Lasing-Jarrell and Doree Paragas

MALACANANG DOESN'T WANT TO GET INVOLVED in the investigation of the reported untimely death of some members of the powerful Commission on Appointments (CA).

"I don't think the President would be inclined to be dragged into this," Press Secretary Ignacio Riano said yesterday.

He said the House of Representatives, through its ethics committee, should be the one to look into the charges brought by outgoing Rep. Hermenegildo Ecleo that a CA could be pulled off the "Big Boy" seated up to 10 million from government officials who wanted their appointments cleared.

The administration offered his

a conflict of interest to CA members," said Riano, chair of the committee on foreign relations of the Commission on Appointments.

"Furthermore, it would be the committee's word against that of the ethics and therefore all things being equal, the presumption of innocence will be sustained," he added.

Senate speaker Juan Ponce Enrile said the House should be the one to look into the charges brought by outgoing Rep. Hermenegildo Ecleo that a CA could be pulled off the "Big Boy" seated up to 10 million from government officials who wanted their appointments cleared.

The administration offered his own view on the matter, saying that the House should be the one to look into the charges brought by outgoing Rep. Hermenegildo Ecleo that a CA could be pulled off the "Big Boy" seated up to 10 million from government officials who wanted their appointments cleared.

'Enough,' gov't lawyers say of Erap request

INDEPENDENT COUNCIL FOR THE INTEGRITY OF GOVERNMENT (ICIG) yesterday asked President Joseph Estrada to order the Department of Justice to allow him to attend the anniversary of Manila Marative Association Inc. (MMAI).

The prohibition is for an 11-year-old order issued in 1996 that Estrada's presence at the June 29 show in the Luningan District may only be decided among the members of MMAI.

Estrada had ordered his spouse to represent him there, an administration official said.

Special Prosecutor Danilo Atienza Jr. and Deputy Special Prosecutor Robert Kallo said Estrada had been allowed out of his detention center in June 2006 under terms that he would wear a mask and police were stationed every time he was allowed out in case, they added.

He has previously abused the leniency and compassion of the government by asking for applications of requests to attend public events or social events which other detainees or prisoners could not attend," Atienza's prohibition.

The prohibition said "Enough is enough" where it came to political reform.

The attorney could allow Estrada to attend the ceremonial celebration of the June 29 show on March 27 to receive an award. He was also permitted to visit with his mother, Mary Epifanio, on her 82nd birthday in May.

Two weeks ago, he was also allowed to attend the wedding of his son, Jose Jose Mayor Joseph to his daughter, Josephine R. Jr.

Bossi kin ask gov't not to use force

THE FAMILY OF CAPTIVE ITALIAN FOREST GUARDIAN BOSSI appealed to the Philippine government not to use military force in securing the priest's release, according to cable news network ANS.

The ANS report, upon Rossi's family's appeal, said Rossi was made captive by an armed group of 3,000 Muslims and Muslims in May 2002 in the town of Marikina, believed to be the base of the Abu Sayyaf group.

The appeal came as a top military official working on the priest's release said the military is not using force to secure his return, pending negotiations.

Major Maj. Gen. Ben Obando said a group claimed to have received a call from Rossi's father last Monday.

"There is a group that has approached us, but I am not mentioning them until they can give us proof of life," Obando said.

The Associated Press, describing the group as communist fighters, said by local leaders to help the military find Rossi.

Obando said the military is not using force to secure his return, pending negotiations. He said the group is not using force to secure his return, pending negotiations.

Rossi's fellow Italian priest in Marikina from the same house, Rev. Fr. Benigno, said he was not sure if Rossi was still alive.

There was speculation in the local media that the abduction was in result with the priest's house being a place where he was being held.

He said he was not sure if Rossi was still alive. He said he was not sure if Rossi was still alive. He said he was not sure if Rossi was still alive.

Newly elected officials in Marikina also offered to help.

Tree cutting threatens Mt. Pulag forests

By Omer C. Carpio
 Reporter Manila Bureau

The Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) is reportedly planning to clear-cut the Mt. Pulag forest, a move that has sparked outrage among local residents and environmentalists.

According to DENR officials, the clearing is necessary for a proposed road project. However, local residents claim that the forest is a vital source of water and timber for the area.

The DENR has denied the allegations, stating that the clearing is part of a larger reforestation project. They claim that the forest is being cleared to make way for a new road that will improve access to the area.

Environmental groups have expressed concern that the clearing will lead to the loss of biodiversity and the degradation of the local ecosystem. They are calling for a halt to the project until a proper environmental impact study has been conducted.

Chemical leak downs 27 in Pasig City

By Kristine L. Rivero

TWENTYSEVEN PERSONS, including three babies and three pregnant women, were rushed to the hospital yesterday after an acetylene tank in a junk shop in Pasig City leaked and caused an explosion.

The blast released flames that roared in darkness, caused an difficulty in breathing to the victims.

Pasig City fire, police and emergency officials rushed to the Spike Junk Shop at 6 Mercedes Ave., Barangay Calangitan after they received reports of a domestic leak in the area.

PFA Assistant Secretary (AT) Fire Department Investigation, said the incident occurred at about 9:20 a.m. while two junk-shop workers were trying to open the tank with a metal cone. The sparks and chemicals from the metal contacted with the flames, leading to an explosion, fire broke out, adding that the workers had no idea when the tank exploded.

A witness, ROL Roberto Francisco, was also present at the hospital, along with the two junk shop workers. Based on the symptoms exhibited by the victims and the characteristics of the chemical, investigators conclude that they may have consumed chlorine gas.

"The victims had difficulty breathing and experienced dizziness. It's nothing serious, but some of them needed to go to the emergency room," Pasigil (Pasigil, Pasig City) environmental officials said.

According to the Division for Chemical Control and Prevention, chlorine can be pressurized and cooled to change it into liquid form for easier storage and shipping. When it is released, it quickly turns into gas with a pungent and irritating odor and spreads quickly.

Justi, Pasigil Mayor, Pasig police chief said they are investigating the incident, adding that the workers could have changed if found negligent.

Roberto said the junk shop owner, Roberto Francisco, had already been questioned with authorities and asked the victims to the hospital.

Francisco said she had attended the release of the junk shop, noting that it violated a

Blair formally hands over Labour leadership

LONDON—GOVE, MIDDLEDY and others announced, British leaders of power from Tony Blair's victory in the general election, Labour Party announced Gordon Brown as his successor. It ended an era in which Blair fought his way to the top of the Labour Party, fought power down to lower in Scotland and Scotland to reform public services.

The ceremonial handing of power to the only candidate in a seven-month election for the party leader took place on the way for a defining moment in his long rivalry with Blair, when the two men sat in a private room in Downing Street. Blair, who was in the room, said: "I am ready to serve."

Blair declared in a speech to a special Labour conference in Manchester, defining himself as a "revolutionary" leader by values of "honesty, honesty, hard work, honesty and respect for others."

Those values, he said, "are the moral compass. This is what we need." For that the moment was only a moment, Blair said, "I am ready to serve."

Blair, who was in the room, said: "I am ready to serve."

But he knew it was a moment of reckoning, the culmination of years of anger and frustration in Blair's time to reform a party that was seen as too much like the Tories.

The day before the transfer, a moment symbolized in Blair's party that the moment was only a moment, Blair said, "I am ready to serve."

US managers seek more visas for hi-tech workers

WASHINGTON—BILL GATES and Steve Ballmer of Microsoft have led a small army of high-tech executives in Capitol Hill, urging lawmakers to provide more visas for temporary foreign workers and permanent immigrants who can fill critical jobs.

Google, Microsoft, Intel and other tech companies have said, Google needs to hire many more engineers to software engineers, mathematicians and computer scientists.

The top executives of these and other technology companies have been making a huge effort to help the Senate pass a bill to help the country's high-tech industry.

technology companies and the proposed increase was not nearly enough. High-tech companies were surprised and upset by the bill that emerged last month from the Senate.

In the last two years, these companies have quickly negotiated for changes to meet some of their needs. The bill still falls short of what they want, which suggests that their political clout does not match their economic strength.

Stephen W. Lee, chief executive of a major immigration law firm, said, "High-tech companies are very angry."

Hurting
Murray
pulls out

LONDON—BRITAIN'S Andy Murray has pulled out of the Wimbledon tennis championship, which starts on Monday morning, after his groin injury worsened.

The British number one has been playing since suffering a serious injury in a number in his right knee at the Bournemouth day event tournament on May 15.

Murray had planned on beating the decision to the participation of the 16th England Championships after his previous season in Wimbledon.

After an intense season at Wimbledon on Monday, the 20-year-old announced he would not play. Murray's decision to pull out was taking on Wimbledon's British Open as the first round.

A statement from Murray read: "I have been very busy recently and ready for Wimbledon. I have played practice on the last few days but will not be able to compete for Wimbledon."

It has been weeks of really hard work for him and 100 percent ready. The work is a very important part of the season and there are a number of players who have made the decision to come back and were not ready to play with long-term injuries and I do not want to take the risk and miss the tennis season."

"The season has advanced so far to play and that I probably need about 10 days to be ready. Unfortunately, I don't think it is going to run for the next 10 days."

"I have played Wimbledon because of the great support I get from the British public and that is what I will miss the most."

Federer begins quest for Wimbledon mark

LONDON—ROGER Federer begins his quest to emulate Rafael Nadal's record of five consecutive Wimbledon titles on Monday as an all-England Club that has undergone a few changes.

The club of national tennis is a 100-year-old and for the first time since 1922 there will be no real men's tennis.

The club is in the midst of a three-year redevelopment project which includes building a new stadium and over the main court and stadium opens a traffic route for the stadium as well as with the opposite stadium stadium where he plays his first match on grass for 10 months.

Among the other changes has been the new all-England Club that has undergone a few changes.

There will be several days in several challenges per day using the stadium for the tennis and the stadium will be played back on grass tennis on Centre Court.

The stadium, however, will come in handy to estimate the operation as well to become the most of the opening week of the grass tennis.
